

Social and Personal

MR. and Mrs. Barker Gurney will arrive in Richmond on Saturday evening to be the guests of Mrs. Hamill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Royall, on West Franklin Street, until Sunday evening. Miss Anne Royall, who has been with Mr. and Mrs. Hamill in New Jersey for several weeks, will return with them to this city.

Entertainment at Club.
A delightful feature of this afternoon will be the lawn party at the Country Club, where the Old Dominion tennis tournament will be in progress at 2:30 o'clock.

Parties of friends will be seated at small tables on the club lawn and its piazzas, and refreshments will be served after 5 o'clock. Members of the club are privileged to invite an out-of-town guest, and members of the Hermitage Club who are playing in the tennis tournament, are expected to be present.

The grounds of the Country Club are beautiful in their early summer dress, and this afternoon's gathering will doubtless specially symbolize the spirit and beauty of the season.

The car company will run a fifteen-minute service over the Westhampton line Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week from 3 P. M. to 12 midnight for the benefit of the Country Club members and out-of-town visitors attending the tennis tournament and the open and invitation golf tournaments now in progress.

Meeting of Daughters of Confederacy.
Richmond Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, at their meeting on yesterday morning passed the following resolution of appreciation of Miss Johnston's book, "The Long Roll":

"Whereas 'The Long Roll' written by Miss Mary Johnston of Richmond, is an eloquent vindication of principles which the United Daughters of the Confederacy hold most sacred; be it

"Resolved, That Richmond Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, express its commendation of the book, and its recommendation that it be adopted in the history departments of Virginia schools and colleges."

The chapter held its last meeting before the fall in Lee Camp Hall at 11 A. M. with Mrs. N. V. Randolph presiding.

Report was made by the various officers and committees. Both the Polk Miller concert at the City Auditorium in May and the recent musical excursion to James River were successful, and large sums realized thereby.

A request was made from Hollywood Memorial Association that Richmond Chapter shall in future take charge of the Davis section in Hollywood.

and that the sum held by the association for that purpose be turned over to the Daughters. The chapter agrees to accept this fund and take up the work.

Mrs. B. A. Blenner gave a report on the old Confederate burying ground at Huguenot Springs, showing the urgent need of work there, and stating that it is now necessary to find funds to build a substantial fence around same.

It was voted that the usual ice cream feast be arranged for the old soldiers at the home some time during the summer.

The chapter decided unanimously to engage the same place as last year for a refreshment booth at the State Fair Grounds, to run a restaurant at the fair as heretofore.

New members received were Mrs. Janie Miller Avery and Mrs. M. Ethel Kelley Kerr. Letters of condolence were ordered written to Mrs. B. H. Ingalls and to the family of Mrs. W. Williams (colored), developed some remarkable features. It was charged that Pulliam struck Johnson on the head with a large whiskey bottle, Pulliam's wife and another witness swore that they saw him strike the blow, and other witnesses testified that Johnson told them that he had been struck with a bottle. Johnson died on Monday evening.

Coroner Leigh made a statement to the jury to the effect that he had very carefully examined the body of Johnson, and that he had made an autopsy, but that the closest scrutiny had failed to detect the slightest sign of injury to the dead man's scalp or skull, and that he could not have detected any blow. Dr. Leigh found a large clot of blood on the brain caused by hemorrhage, and gave it as his judgment that Johnson had died of apoplexy. The jury rendered a verdict in accordance with Dr. Leigh's statement. This verdict will relieve Pulliam, for whom the police have been searching, of all prosecution.

Grand Jury To-Morrow.
The findings Court begins its June term to-morrow, with several felony cases on the docket. It is expected that to the grand jury to be empaneled will be given for consolidation the voluminous indictment prepared by the Commonwealth's Attorney in the Old Appomattox Trust Company cases. This indictment, as has been stated, contains 264 pages of closely typewritten matter, with 525 counts, covering thirty-four charges of alleged embezzlement against Charles Hall Davis and Carter R. Bishop. There have already been three grand juries in these cases, the first returning a number of indictments, some of which have been dismissed or nolle prossed, and others are pending. The third jury sworn in May to further consider the cases was discharged before the beginning of investigation because of the fact that one or more of the members were found to have been directly or indirectly interested in the Appomattox Bank. The new indictment will go before the grand jury as entirely new matter. If the court repeats its instructions to the last jury the new jury will in no wise take cognizance of or be influenced by the action of the previous juries, and will make careful and conscientious investigation as to each charge and each count in the new indictment.
